

Our History

The Mount Bauple Museum was open on the 24th February 2001. This was 132 years after the first settler took up residence in the area. With so much history, local residents united in its preservation and have dedicated this museum for use by present and future generations.

Museum

Our museum allows you to research the history of many of our early families, or to see the many photographs, or perhaps to check 'war records'. These extensive library records are continually being increased and upgraded.

Our war records have been extensively researched and are on display. Other unique memorabilia is exhibited and more are added regularly.

We have one of the finest collections of antique telephones and other telegraphy equipment.

The Gardens

Spend some time in our gardens with your family and friends. We have two electrically operated BBQ's that are free to use and available at all times. Ask us about any other requirements you may have.

Murals

Take a look at our murals which have been enlarged from actual photographs. They make our history come to life.

Mount Bauple

The name Mount Bauple (or Bopple or Boppel) is derived from Aboriginal legend

This is Mount Bauple in the distance as you drive south of Tiaro
